ATTORNEY-GENERAL'S OFFICE, }
February 29, 1856. }

To the Honorable CHARLES A. PHELPS, Speaker of the House of Representatives:—

SIR:—I have the honor to transmit through you, to the legislature, my Annual Report of the criminal business of the Commonwealth, for the year 1855, so far as the same is embraced in the official action of the Attorney-General and the prosecuting officers of the several districts.

In transmitting this Report, with the accompanying Abstract of the Returns made to me by the District-Attorneys, it is the duty of the Attorney-General to submit to the legislature such observations and statements, as in his opinion the criminal jurisprudence, and the proper and economical administration of the criminal law shall warrant and require."

In compliance with this requirement of the statute, I deem it my duty to call the attention of the two Houses to the significant fact, disclosed in these Returns, that of the great increase in the criminal business of the Commonwealth which they compel us to contemplate and deplore, a very large proportion has arisen out of the efforts that have been made to enforce the prohibitory liquor laws of 1852 and 1855, in the several counties of the State. Of the unprecedentedly large number of cases which have been carried from the Court of Common Pleas, and the Municipal Court of Boston, to the cial Court, upon bills of exceptions, and motions rest of judgment, and which have been argued by the rney-General, nearly two-thirds have grown out of prosecuns for alleged violations of the provisions of these statutes. f the whole number of offences embraced in the Returns of e District-Attorneys, making a total of five thousand one huned and fifty-one, more than two thousand, or nearly a moiety all the criminal prosecutions for the year, which have ebed the Court of Common Pleas and the Municipal Court, of the same class. Of a total of one hundred and eight sand dollars of taxed costs, embraced in these Returns, e than thirty-seven thousand dollars have been expended n these prosecutions. These statistics, however, it should added, furnish a very inadequate view of the expense to the Commonwealth, arising out of the efforts on the part of the public officers to enforce these laws. Probably a much larger sum than this has been taxed in the several Police Courts, and by Justices of the Peace, before whom prosecutions have been final; and in addition to these, large drafts have been made upon the treasury to indemnify officers in the various counties, who had acted under the seizure clauses of the law of 1852, since adjudged unconstitutional by the Supreme Judicial Court.

In view of these facts, it is worthy of the serious consideration of the legislature, whether the results of these prosecuons, either in their reformatory, disciplinary or punitive ects, have been at all commensurate with the means and the achinery which have been found necessary to be applied to them, in the existing state of public sentiment on this subject.
 My own deliberate judgment is that it has proved an expensive failure; and that new legislation is required, to meet the enormous evil which these statutes were hopefully designed to remedy. The character of that legislation it is not my province or my purpose to discuss. It is undeniable that the people of Massachusetts are earnestly desirous of doing, through the agency of the law, all that it is practicable for government to do, by wise and considerate legislation, to arrest the progress of intemperance. But a system which utterly fails to accomplish this beneficent purpose, while it adds in so large a measure to the public burdens, cannot, with an intelligent and practical people, be a permanent or a satisfactory one.

At the last session of the legislature a bill passed the House of Representatives, but failed in the Senate, which a recent decision of the Supreme Judicial Court seems to render important to be again called to the attention of the legislature. By an early decision of that court it was held, that a person committing a larceny in another State of the Union, and being found with the stolen property in his possession in this State, was liable to conviction and punishment for larceny here. A recent case occurred of a larceny committed in the neighboring Province of Nova Scotia, the perpetrators of which made their escape with their booty, and sought refuge in this State. They were prosecuted and found guilty by the jury, but the verdict was set aside, and the prisoners discharged, by the Supreme Judicial Court, upon the ground that the existing law did not extend to, and cover, the case of a larceny originally committed beyond the limits of the United States. As it was found that the international treaty with Great Britain, for the extradition of fugitives from justice, did not reach the case, these felons obtained entire impunity, by making Massachusetts the depot of their stolen goods, and converting our territory to a modern Alsatia for fugitive criminals. The courts of some of our sister States,—Vermont, for example,—have held the contrary doctrine, and applied to the neighboring British Provinces the same rule that obtains with us respecting the United States. New York has done the same, by legislation and the bill before referred to was designed to meet and remedy the mischief which may grow out of the decision in this case when it shall become known that the criminals of a foreign jurisdiction can find impunity for themselves, and protection for their plunder within our borders.

The diversified duties which attach to the office of Attorney General, and the very great increase of his labors from year to year, arising out of the extended business of the Government, and the wealth in all its departments, make it proper that I should call the attention of the legislature to the necessity of some legislation respecting this office. I prefer to do this frankly, through this medium, rather than to resort to the solicitation of the support of individual members of the legislature to some specific measure of relief; not only because I regard it as more fitting to the relation which I hold to the two Houses, but because the Commonwealth is more interested in the matter than any individual incumbent of the office can be.

In addition to the criminal business which requires the services of the Attorney-General, the accompanying schedule of cases conducted and argued by him, will show that important civil causes are confided to his management in the courts. Among those now pending is the Bill in Equity, to determine the boundary between Massachusetts and Rhode Island, in the Supreme Court at Washington. His labors in this cause are performed without any compensation additional to his salary under the existing law, although, in the general increase the salaries of the public officers, his has remained as it originally established. Indeed, the present rate of competition presents the somewhat anomalous proportion, between salaries of the Attorney-General and the County-Attorney Suffolk, of the former being five hundred dollars less than latter; while the one has no duties out of his own county, the other incurs a large amount of travelling expenses,—all which, within the State, are paid out of his salary. The services of the County-Attorney, constant and laborious beyond those of almost any public officer, are cheaply obtained by the Commonwealth at the salary which attaches to his office. In the duties of the Attorney-General are so various, that his presence is often required at the same time in different counties; and the calls upon him for written opinions, consultations and advice, by the several departments of the government, committees of the legislature and public officers, render it indispensable that he should be authorized, as exigencies may require, to employ such assistance, professional and clerical, as the public interests demand. At the last session of the legislature a Resolve passed the House of Representatives, authorizing him to employ such clerical assistance as the stretch of the public business in his office might require. It was amended in the Senate by inserting a limitation of the annual expense of such assistance to the sum of two hundred dollars. This limitation, it is obvious, rendered the provision practically of little value. I respectfully submit, that in a matter of this nature, a certain degree of confidence must be reposed in the discretion of such an officer, and that his judgment and character can safely be relied upon, that it will not be abused. Especially is this true under the recent amendment of the Constitution, which makes the Attorney-General elective by the people or the legislature, and by limiting the tenure of the office, subjects him to an annual ordeal of public responsibility.

These “observations and statements” are presented for the consideration of the legislature, in the confidence that the two branches will take such action upon them as they may deem the public interests and public justice require.
